

Proclamation

WHEREAS: Water is the most precious resource on earth, contributing to the good health and continued existence of all human beings; and

WHEREAS: The prosperity and quality of life of all citizens is dependent upon a clean, safe and dependable water supply; and

WHEREAS: Modern, innovative wastewater treatment facilities are vital to the protection and enhancement of Minnesota water resources and the health of all Minnesotans; and

WHEREAS: The Central States Water Pollution Control Association and Minnesota Wastewater Operators Association are sponsoring Water Quality Awareness Week to focus public attention on the critical role wastewater treatment plants play in the preservation of our water supply; and

WHEREAS: Water Quality Awareness Week is a time for the citizens of our state to learn more about wastewater treatment plants and the many ways that they, as individuals, can impact the quality of our valuable water resources;

NOW THEREFORE, I, ARNE H. CARLSON, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the week of October 3-10, 1992 to be in Minnesota.
